 18. Halloween means bags filled with candy. Instead of denying kids their annual quest for candy and treats, parents can make the Halloween season a learning opportunity about healthy eating. Let children be allowed to enjoy Halloween. The most important thing is not what they do on one day; it's what they do every day of the year. Healthy eating is about balance and encouraging good eating habits now so your child can eat better throughout his or her life. Help your child build a lifetime of healthy eating habits by trying some of these healthy Halloween tricks: Eat treats sparingly. All foods can fit into eating habits. Teach your children that they can have a treat after they have eaten their meal, with foods from all the five food groups including breads, fruits, vegetables, dairy and meat. Eat before you trick-or-treat. Serve your child a nutritious meal or snack before going trick-or-treating so he/she won't be tempted to dig into a bag of candy before he/she gets home. Set limits. Set limits on how much candy can be eaten each day. Parents are in charge of what kids eat. Divide candy into weekly and daily portions - when it's all gone, children need to wait until the next day or week. Let your kids pick out a few of their favorite candy pieces to have each day. Trick-or-Treat! Think beyond traditional candy for your Halloween treats. Offer kids non-sweet alternatives from the list below:

Clif Kid Twisted Fruit Ropes	Full Circle 100-calorie snacks	Cheese and cracker packages
Chewing gum	Boxes of animal crackers	Cheese sticks
Juice boxes (100% fruit juice)	Granola or cereal bars	Small packages of pretzels and popcorn
Small packages of sunflower seeds or nuts	Peanuts in the shell	Individual cereal boxes
Balloons	Stickers	Crayons
Comic or coloring books	Pencils	Silly Putty or bubbles
Whistles	Rubber spiders or worms

Where's the Flock? : Fort Riley OCSC Fabulous Flocking Fundraiser

(Fort Riley, Kan. – October 12, 2010) by Shelley Roten
Imagine waking up and peering out the window to see your yard filled with a flock of pink plastic flamingos. Once this new craze of fundraising catches on in a community it can reach the point where individuals feel left out if they haven't been "flocked". It's like new-age toilet papering, but for a good cause and not quite as much cleanup hassle.

During the month of October, the Fort Riley Officer and Civilian Spouses Club members can be flocked or flock someone. What better way to let someone know that you're thinking of them than to have them wake up to a yard full of friendly pink birds! You just have to contact the Flock Meister at wherestheflock@gmail.com to make your discreet arrangements.

Want to get in on the action?

No problem! This year the Fort Riley OCSC is offering flamingo flocking to Fort Riley and the surrounding communities throughout the whole year. We are offering celebration flocking on Fort Riley! The cost is $35 and the OCSC flamingo wranglers will set up a flock of flamingos in the middle of the night in the yard of one of your unsuspecting "victims" of choice. What a wonderful way to let everyone know about any big occasion – birthdays, babies, promotions, etc.

If you're thinking on a smaller scale, but still want to participate there is an option for you. This year they've added the option to send a flocking card to your friends or loved ones. The cards will be mailed anywhere and are filled with flamingo confetti sure to brighten anyone's day. The cost for a flocking card is $5 or a set of 5 for $20. Contact wherestheflock@gmail.com to get your flock in the mail!

You don't have to be an OCSC member to send a celebration flock or flocking cards! All proceeds go to the Community Assistance Fund. Funds are redistributed throughout the local community and benefit many organizations such as the Fort Riley Combined Scholarship, Central Kansas Military Foundation, Boy Scouts, Armed Services YMCA, and Lady Troopers to name a few.
